

NANCY GREENE RAINE

- Nancy Greene was a member of the National Ski Team between 1959-68, winning 6 Canadian and 3 U.S. championships between 1961 and 1968
- She was a member of the Olympic Team in 1960 and 1964 as well, as two World Championship teams 1962 and 1966
- She won the overall gold at the 1967 World Cup. This was the first World Cup race ever held
- Won gold and silver in the slalom events at the 1968 Winter Olympics, Grenoble, France (only the second time a Canadian won gold in a Olympic ski event)
- She won 14 individual World Cup events over a 2 year period (1967-68). The next best Canadian record is 5 wins in 10 years
- After retiring from competitive skiing, Nancy coached the National Ski Team from 1968-73. She was also instrumental in the development of Blackcomb Mountain in Whistler, B.C

---

Proudly supported by

